

What the server receives in practice: closed-form attack on the first-layer update

